

Friday, February 20, 2009

Polliwalks Giveaway!

I am so happy to host this giveaway for the wonderful people at Polliwalks. They are giving one lucky reader their choice of Polliwalks!

I got a pair in for my younger daughter. And she loves shoes! She was very happy to get these in. Not only were they adorable but the tail also blinked!!

So we decided to try these out going to the ball field. She ran and ran with them and I was so impressed with the fit. They were not clumsy feeling for her, they fit perfect! Then it started getting dark at the field. She loved to strut her Polliwalks making sure everyone knew the tail blinked!

I am so impressed with the originality and quality of these shoes!

How did Polliwalks get started:

"Polliwalks™ was born from the imagination of long time footwear designer and former toy designer, Joel Rusnak. He had the idea that children's shoes should be fun and offer toy like features that will make wearing shoes a playful experience, while offering support, stability and comfort for little feet. Joel teamed up with his wife, and three of his long time industry colleagues, and together, they created Polliwalks™."

Visit Polliwalks.com then come back and leave a comment and tell me what your favorite pair is! What another entry? Blog about this giveaway and leave a post that you did and where. You can also subscribe to my blog / be a follower / grab my button for additional entries! Winner will be picked using random.org. Contest will end February 27, 2009 9:00 PM EST.

Posted by Frugal Mommy at 7:30 AM 773 comments